Capital and Major Campaigns in Fairfield County
2011 Report

The Connecticut Council for Philanthropy is the state's only regional association of grantmakers—a local source for education and professional development, knowledge and information, and opportunities to connect with other funders on matters of mutual interest.

This report, and the other work of the Council, is made possible by support from our members. We thank them for recognizing the value of our mission to support and enhance effective philanthropy in Connecticut.

INTRODUCTION

The Connecticut Council for Philanthropy is pleased to present this compilation of major and capital campaigns that are either in Fairfield County or will be approaching Fairfield County grantmakers for philanthropic dollars. The report not only provides grantmakers with a picture of what the major development needs are or will be in the community, but also provides an overview for nonprofit organizations contemplating a major campaign.

The Council has compiled Fairfield County capital campaign data as a service to its members and the nonprofit community since 2002. We will continue to collect information on new campaigns throughout the year with the next complete report in the fall of 2012.

The report is designed to:

- portray the scope of campaigns by organizations seeking funds from grantmakers in the Fairfield County area
- provide information to facilitate decisions around the allocation of limited dollars
- be helpful in the strategic planning for nonprofits embarking on a major or capital campaign

Founded in 1969, the Connecticut Council for Philanthropy is a statewide association of independent and family foundations, community foundations, corporate foundations and giving programs, federated funds and other grantmaking public charities and individual grantmakers. The Council's mission is to promote and support effective philanthropy for the public good in Connecticut.

The report is for informational purposes only and does not imply any support or endorsement of listed campaigns by the Connecticut Council for Philanthropy or any of our members.

METHODOLOGY

Data for this report was collected from nonprofit organizations from November through December 2011 from surveys completed by participating organizations and, when necessary, through telephone contact. We appreciate the cooperation and support of the nonprofit community in this effort which is designed to benefit both grantseekers and grantmakers.

While considerable effort has been made to include data about all capital and major campaigns in the region, information about some campaigns may be missing. Every effort was made to obtain responses from those organizations reporting campaign activity in the previous year and to identify any new campaigns. A few organizations chose not to respond; others may have been missed in spite of our best efforts.

The information contained in this report is self-reported and may not include all relevant data about an organization. While we tried to reflect accurately what the organizations told us about themselves, occasional editing was necessary in the interest of clarity and consistency.

OVERVIEW and HIGHLIGHTS

OVERVIEW:
The 2011 report includes 18 campaigns seeking funding in the Fairfield County area, with 17 organizations reporting a combined goal of $148.3 million. This is only slightly higher than the $147.9 million goal of 2010.

- Of the total goal 96.6% is for capital needs, 1.7% for endowment and 1.7% for other.
- Six campaigns have closed since the last report.
- There are four new campaigns reporting in 2011.
- 45% of the combined goal has been raised or committed to date.

ARTS & CULTURE: The total arts and culture goal for 2011 is $31.5 million, with nearly 65% raised to date. The four active campaigns represent 21% of the combined goal.

- Silvermine Tavern Studios is the one new arts and culture campaign.

EDUCATION: The total education goal for 2011 is $23.4 million, with 61% raised to date. There are three active campaigns representing 16% of the combined goal.

- Three campaigns have closed: Bethel Public Library; Norwalk River Rowing and Junior league of Eastern Fairfield County which has put its fundraising effort on hold.

ENVIRONMENT: The total environment goal has increased to $26.9 million representing 18% of the combined goal with 24% raised to date.

- Wildlife In Crisis is the one new campaign with a goal of $6.9 million.

HEALTH CARE: Southwest Community Health Center has two active health care campaigns in various stages with a combined goal of $10.4 million and $9.9 million raised to date.

HUMAN SERVICES: Human services is the largest program area with seven organizations; six reporting a total goal of $56.1 million and one campaign still in the planning stage. Nearly 27% of the stated goal has been raised to date.

- Three campaigns closed in 2011: Boys and Girls Village, Burroughs Community Center and Wilton Commons.
- There is one new campaign: Elderhouse.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION: Other organizations which may launch campaigns in the near future include Westport Public Library and New Canaan Library. These organizations are still in the process of determining their campaign needs and strategies. Details will be included in future reports.

IMPACT OF CURRENT ECONOMY: The Council collected anecdotal data from the participating organizations regarding the effects of the economic downturn on capital campaign efforts. Of the 14 campaigns continuing from last year, only three showed significant monies raised.

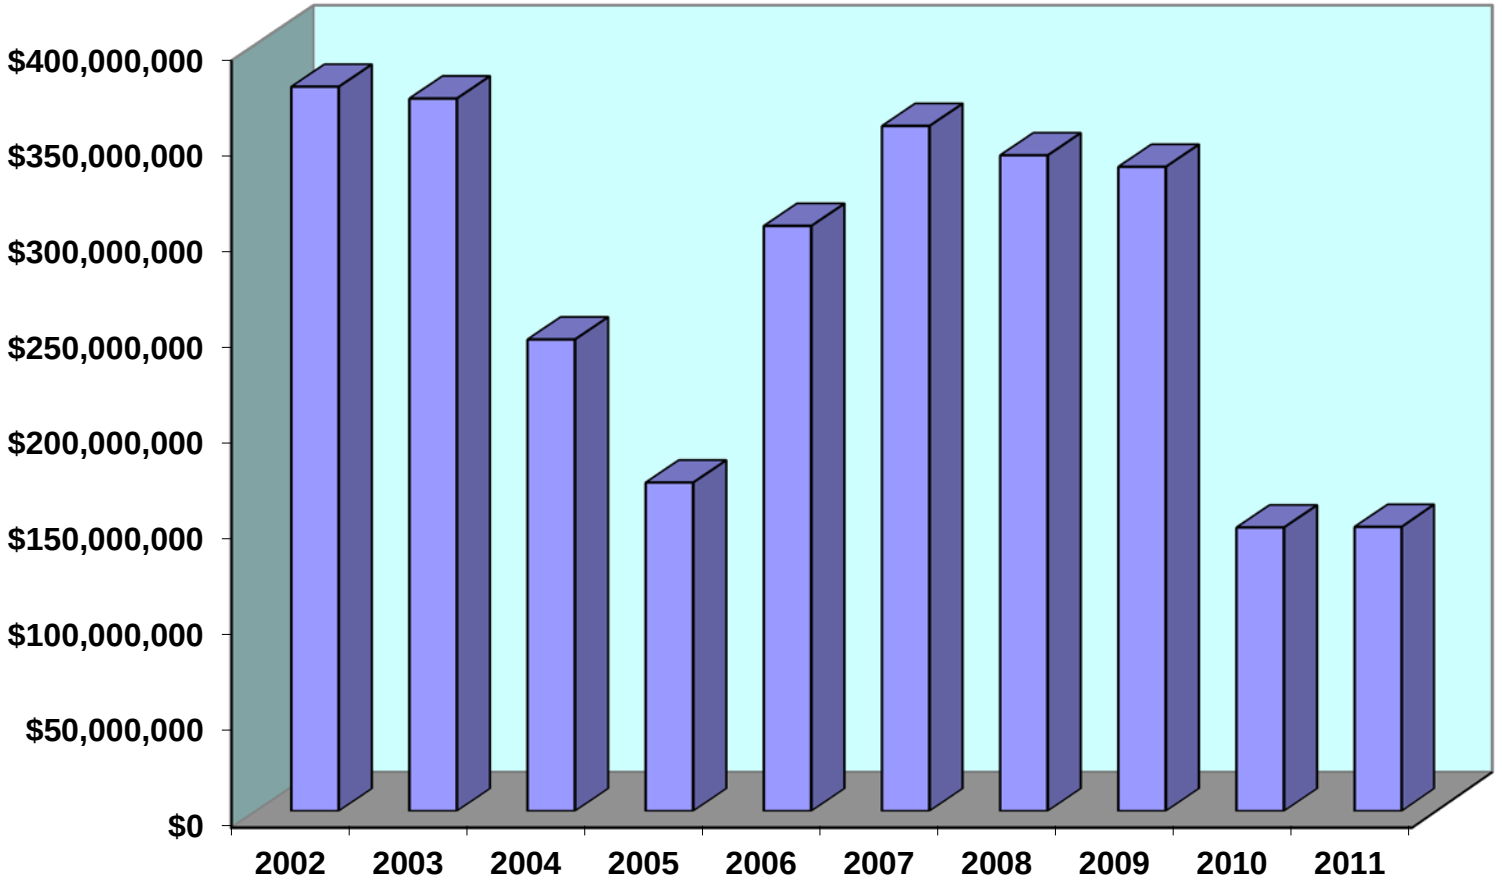
FAIRFIELD COUNTY
COMBINED CAPITAL CAMPAIGN GOALS
2002 - 2011



PREFACE TO SPREADSHEET

Keys to the listings and categories used in 2011 CCP Fairfield County Report on Capital and Major Campaigns

This year's Report on Capital and Major Campaigns provides information on 18 fund-raising campaigns in the Greater Fairfield County area.

Information is presented in spreadsheet format on campaigns conducted by nonprofit organizations serving the fields of: arts and culture, education, health care and human services/youth development.

For the purpose of this report, the following definitions apply:

- Capital campaign -- raises funds for the purchase, construction, renovation and/or improvement of property or equipment.

- Endowment -- raises funds to invest and draw income, over time, for the programs, projects and needs of nonprofit organizations.

- Other -- fundraising for special projects (other than operating support).

- TBD (To be determined) -- indicates where numbers were not announced/released/available at the time of publication.

The spreadsheet categories also include listings for:

- Foundation and corporation percent (%) of goal -- indicates the percentage of the total fundraising goal to be raised from national and local funders.
- Fairfield foundation and corporation percent (%) of goal -- indicates the percentage of the total fundraising goal to be raised from foundations and corporations in Fairfield County.

Please note that this is a status report on campaigns at this point in time -- and that it is published for informational purposes only.
